The Object of The Game

One: Have fun! Two: Amass points by answering Trivia questions correctly. Each question is worth up to 500 points, determined by the number of teams getting the correct answer. The team with the highest point total at the end of the contest wins. Questions will deal with any facts which the Trivia Oz determines to be Trivia. All rules are subject to change at the discretion of the Oz.

How To Play

Trivia 53: The Trivia Life for Me begins at 6pm Friday, April 14th, and runs 54 hours through midnight Sunday, April 16th. In most hours, the announcers on WWSP-90FM will ask eight questions and each question will run for two songs. Earn points by calling in the correct answer to the current question before time runs out.

- The last question will run the length of one song.
- Questions in the Midnight and 6pm hours on Saturday and Sunday will run the length of one song at least four minutes long.
- Singing questions will run the length of three songs.

Once you’ve decided upon an answer, start calling in early to improve your chances of getting in before time runs out. Expect busy signals on easier questions. Call in your answer using only the Trivia phone number found at the front of your copy of the New Trivia Times. Please dial carefully, especially at night. When your call connects:

1. The operator will ask for your ID number.
2. Provide your team ID number (found in the front of this book).
3. The operator will repeat your ID number, then ask for your answer.
4. If the operator didn’t repeat your ID number correctly, it is your responsibility to repeat and confirm it before continuing with your answer.
5. Provide your answer. Please speak clearly. It is your responsibility to give the operator the opportunity to ask you to repeat your answer if necessary. They will not provide clues or say whether you are right or wrong.
6. Wait for your operator to thank you, then hang up immediately.

Each team may call in one answer per question. Multiple answers may result in no points for your team for that question. Multiple answers on multiple questions may result in your team’s disqualification.

Point values for questions will be revealed after Trivia Focus, with a one-hour delay. For example, the values for questions in Hour 1 will be read at the beginning of Hour 3.

Your team may also earn points through Music Snippet questions, Trivia Stone stamps, and Running Questions. Read through your New Trivia Times for more information.

Disputing Answers

Listen carefully to answer the question as asked. Questions about public personas require their stage or performing names, unless otherwise specified.

A complaint line will be open during most of the contest. We will announce when it opens and closes. The complaint line is for the purpose of discussing the validity and accuracy of a question or answer. You must have legitimate sources to contest our sources. The Oz shall determine if your complaint and/or source is worthy of taking action. If you have a problem with your score and how it compares with ours, remember, our total is correct.

Fair Play

The rules of Trivia promote the mutual enjoyment of all participants. We will strive to maintain the integrity and reputation of the contest, and may disqualify any team that infringes on the rights of other players to participate in an honest contest.

Cheating will not be tolerated. This includes collaborating with other teams, disturbing items related to the Trivia Stone or Running Questions, making deceitful edits on public websites, or re-posting New Trivia Times photos on public websites or apps. There is no need to repost New Trivia Times pictures as they are available on the Trivia website. A password-protected space only for members of your team is OK.

By participating, you agree to follow these rules and proper sportsmanship. Remember also to return all borrowed books to libraries as soon as possible after the contest.

This is Trivia like it is played nowhere else.
This is the biggest and best, so pull out all the stops and let’s play Trivia, Fast Eddie!

There will be two Running Questions during the contest. Each is an opportunity to get outside and get your blood pumping while you find the answers to questions about the neighborhood. Running questions will challenge your physical endurance, cleverness, and trivial knowledge.

Teams may send any number of representatives to each. Make sure they have your team ID number, a pencil, some type of measuring device, and perhaps jogging clothes. They can get there any way they want, following all traffic laws to (and from) the starting locations, but finding the answers to the questions themselves must be done on foot.

To repeat: No wheels may be used during the questions. Exception: wheelchairs and strollers are allowed. Using other wheels will result in no points for your team for that question. There will always be ample time to answer the questions, as we do them on foot in an old-guy time of 45 minutes.

The first Running Question begins 7am Saturday morning. Team representatives should meet in the big parking lot on the corner of Main Street and Strongs in downtown Stevens Point. If you get there early, save us a couple of parking spots in the corner by the United Way display.

The second Running Question begins at 7am Sunday morning. Team representatives should meet in the parking lot outside Dollar General at 3260A Church Street. If you get there early, save us a couple of parking spots near Black Cow Espresso. Please use caution traveling to and from the running question locations due to the high level of foot traffic. Watch out for pirates; they’re sneaky.

See you there...

The Trivia Stone

The Trivia Stone is a test of trivia teams’ accuracy, endurance, cleverness, and trivial knowledge.

Throughout the contest, we will read clues to the Stone on the air. They will not be repeated or elaborated upon; they are what they are. You may record the clues to ensure accuracy. Follow those clues on your journey to get up to three stamps that will earn your team trivia points. One stamp is worth 50 points. Two will earn 150 points. Getting all three stamps will get you 300 points.

While following the clues, remember this: at no time will you be instructed to violate any laws or ordinances. If you find yourself breaking the law, you made a mistake. If you get to a roundabout, you made a mistake. Under no circumstances are you to use any type of artificial light source at night except for your headlights. Do not use any other beams—you may be arrested for disturbing the peace.

To keep traffic manageable, there are two Stone Groups. Look at your registration sticker to determine which Stone Group clues—Group A or Group B—your team must follow to receive points. Be sure to follow the correct clues.

- Stone Group A: Your starting point is outside King Cone on Cedar Drive in Plover, facing East.
- Stone Group B: Your starting point is in front of the 90FM studios on Reserve Street in Stevens Point, facing South.

The Stone Clue schedule is posted on 90fmtrivia.org. Be ready for stamp pickup times as follows:

- Stone Group A: 3:15am Saturday, 4:15am Sunday, and 4:15pm Sunday.
- Stone Group B: 4:15am Saturday, 5:15am Sunday, and 5:15pm Sunday.

You will have 45 minutes to get each Trivia Stone stamp. Present the inside front cover of the New Trivia Times with your ID number sticker in it to get your Trivia Stone stamps. No stamps will be given without that stickered New Trivia Times. Stamps are coded by Stone Group. If you get a stamp from the wrong group, you will receive no points.

Present your stamped copy of the New Trivia Times in person at the 90FM studios 6:30–7:30pm Sunday to get your points. Do not drop it off early or bring it in late.

Good luck! Remember to watch for construction and drive safely.

William the Cartographer— a skilled map maker with no short-term memory—will craft your map and immediately forget it. No need to waste your powder on one-shot artists. Savvy? Please heed:

- Scale must be 80 paces to the inch, as William has no depth perception.
- Tattooed maps available. Customer must provide well-shaved back.

Last April, I saw several parents bring infant children through registration to get their first Trivia onesies. Call me sappy, but I thought to myself how lucky those kids were to be born into Trivia, a cross-generational event that families look forward to like a second holiday season. Sometimes it’s not with the family you’re born in, but the one you join, or even the family of close friendships. Whichever way, Trivia prep is a great way to beat cabin fever in winter months.

In warmer days last summer, that memory of the registration line was on my mind as I took notes for future questions. At the time, I was also fighting an ear worm—that thing where part of a song keeps looping in your head. The first part had the same rhythm as “Trivia 53,” which morphed into the lyrics. The rest wouldn’t drop. Then, watching a movie, a scene in it suddenly gave me clarity. The ear worm resolved, and I had this year’s theme: Trivia 53: The Trivia Life for Me. I thought of those little babies and smiled.

Fortunately, you don’t have to start that young to enjoy Trivia. All you need to do is dive into Trivia this year with your closest hearties. Throw in some piratical puns and a breezy, beach-casual approach, and you’re off to some fun on the high seas of Trivia. We’ve even provided you with a map, though it’s up to you to discover trivial treasure. We’ll give you lots of chances. And when you miss one, just remember to holler “ARRrgh” with your best pirate accent and rally for the next.

I’ve been lucky enough to have this contest in my life for 45 years. I have strong, decades-long friendships because of this thing. I’ve seen students wander into a dorm team headquarters late at night and get hooked, staying for “just one more question”—hour after hour—until well past dawn. I’ve seen couples meet at Trivia, fall in love, and get married. I’ve seen their children grow up in this contest to later become UWSP students. I saw another marriage on a moving Trivia parade float. I’ve also seen parents handing the baton to new generations of players, retiring to more comfortable chairs and supporting roles in homes with rooms dedicated to the family team. I’ve seen basements and sunrooms remodeled specifically for hosting Trivia. Only in the 90FM listening area do real estate agents know the draw of “a big, Trivia-ready room with plenty of ventilation.”

The point of all my sentimental rambling here is that Trivia is an amazing thing. I’m talking Trivia with a capital T, which is much more than the small-t trivia that Trivia questions are about (savvy?). Capital-T Trivia is meant to be a shared experience for your team, no matter what your team’s mix of veterans and newbies. You all get to share the same swagger when you net a big-pointer.

So…if you’re someone who enjoys Trivia…who lives Trivia…or just loves spending a good time with family and friends…you know this contest is for you. You probably also know someone else you should introduce it to (no need to get them a onesie, a T-shirt will do just fine). Or maybe you know of someone to reintroduce it to after some time away.

And when you see that someone light up at some point during the contest, it’ll remind you of the same light that shines in the eye of a veteran player when Born to be Wild comes on the radio.

And you know why.

Let’s play Trivia, Fast Eddie.

It’s that time of year again, friends—The World’s Largest Trivia Contest is here! We’ve been discussing the theme since it was announced during Radiothon, and I, for one, am excited to finally experience Trivia 53: The Trivia Life for Me!

Looking back as I prepare for graduation, I know I’ll have many good memories from my time here at 90FM. Last summer, we had an executive staff meeting during Reunion Weekend—a fantastic event when alumni come back to be on our airwaves—and we learned about the history of our roles. We also learned earlier staffs experienced many of the same challenges we were facing. Like them, we came together to meet those challenges head on.

In the fall semester, we had a Student Trivia Night during Welcome Week that was a tremendous success, and we rolled right into Jazzfest, College Radio Day, and the End of the World. Of course, Radiothon was a highlight for all of us. It showed us the strength of 90FM’s connection to the community.

Student engagement increased significantly as we turned the calendar in January. In second semester, we held Tribute Day honoring Tom Petty, and a Women’s Day in March, all while getting ready for Trivia.

I want to express my gratitude to our Executive Staff, our Advisor Steve Suehring, our Engineer John Gosz, Jim, and DAC for always being available to answer questions. I want to thank our community volunteers without whom our weekends would not be filled. And I want to thank you, our loyal 90FM listeners. Your unwavering support is invaluable to us.

With all that said, it’s now time for Trivia 53: The Trivia Life for Me! So let’s all sit back, relax, and enjoy this incredible event!

The “help”

“Do you think we will still be playing TRIVIA when we are in our 30’s?”
-The Bird, 1974

Have been playing for so long, we can answer the questions with our eyes closed
Dear Mike -

I hear you have departed to a place of higher intellectual fraternization. I’m sure you’re holding your own with Freud, Nietzsche, Jung and all those other deep thinkers. What’s Douglas MacArthur like? I’ll bet he and Churchill are in your social club. No doubt you’ve sought out Joplin, Morrison and Lennon. Who is more interesting Hitchcock or Welles?

I have to tell you that I’m feeling a little empty right now. The thought of missing out on our annual 54 hour interaction routine leaves me wishing we could have done it just one more time. Did I ever tell you that I really appreciated all those times you asked me about how my family was doing? That loan you arranged for me at the bank so many years ago saved me on so many fronts. And that you made time to come to my retirement party, and brought all those old pictures? I still have those random emails you sent me about things we would talk about at trivia.

You know Mike, more and more of my friends that are hanging around in your space, but for some reason your journey is weighing on me more that most. I can’t put my finger on it though. It’s a combination of that eye to eye contact you made in conversation that exhibited your genuine interest in friendships, that efflorescent chuckle that exposed an enormous sense of humor, the impish smirk that clued everyone one into an impending prank, the explosion of enthusiastic finger pointing and arm waving when you pulled a trivia answer out of thin air, and your tendency to be present at so many events that were important in my life. It’s been my great pleasure to know you: from the day we first met as adversaries on the intramural football field at UWSP to the last time we laughed together at the Bergs in Plover. I know we will see each other again. Until then feel free to send those informational emails. Say hi to Harry for me.
