It is now Friday, October 23rd and there truly is a tension in the air. Experiment in Trivia starts tonight and I am scared to the depths of my liver! Or wherever you get scared to the depths of. It starts tonight and I’m just hoping everything works right. I mean we’ve never done this before. So, let’s cover the rules for this weekend’s activities. Keep these rules close at hand.

You have registered, so you are now set up in the answer submission site. During the contest, we will be streaming audio and video. Both are accessible from the Trivia website, 90fmtrivia.org. beginning at 6pm this evening, we will ask 8 questions per hour. After a question has been read, you can begin submitting your answer. Each question allows 1 answer until the submission is no longer accepted. You only get 1 attempt. You can only have the site opened on 1 computer at a time. Spelling is important, capitalization is not important, accuracy is important as well. When the time is up, “phones down”, the question will be closed. So, get your answers in quickly.

There will be 3 music snippets. They will be played in 3 different sets of 2. You will have approximately 3 hours and 45 minutes to send in your answers. Each song in the snippet is treated as a question, so it is important that they are done in order of play. So, the first snippet is question 1 of that ‘hour’, the second is question 2 of the ‘hour’ and so on.

There will be a Trivia Stone this time around as well. You will need to do the Stone clues from your computer using Google Street View. There will be 15 clues given at various times during the contest. You must follow the clues and eventually end up in a particular place. There will be 3 questions or ‘stamp’ locations where you will need to submit an answer. You will have 45 minutes to submit those answers. Each Trivia Stone Answer is worth 100 points for a total of 300 points for the total Trivia Stone.

There will be a complaint line given out later in the contest. We will be reading the team standings at 7:30 Saturday and Sunday mornings, as well as after the contest, approximately at 12:30. We are asking for donations and are offering gifts to those who contribute. The levels and pictures on the Trivia website. Sorry about the looks of the website. We just changed hosts and the bugs haven’t been ironed out yet. If you wish to just contribute, you can go directly to the Friends of 90FM account at the following: https://cfcwi.fcsuite.com/erp/donate/create?funit_id=1475. Thank you for your help. All gifts will be printed after the contest and we will be sending them to you beginning on November 9th. Thank you for your patience with all of this.

Everyone associated with this contest hope that you all stay safe this weekend and have plenty of fun, something that has been in short supply this year. Now, let’s play Trivia, Fast Eddie....
